OVERVIEW OF THE PROJECT

The EU-GLOBACT Module aims to promote excellence in teaching and research in the field of EU legal studies, introducing a new focus on the emerging EU counter-crime policy, paramount to ensuring security and protecting European values, including the rule of law and fundamental rights, both in the EU and worldwide.

In this perspective, the Module will contribute to spreading knowledge about the EU's priority to export European interests and values to the global stage through its active role and stronger voice in fighting terrorism and cross-border/online crimes.

The main expected result is identifying solutions and best practices in fighting transnational offences that could be replicated at the European and international level.

To this end, EU-GLOBACT combines teaching projects, research initiatives, and community engagement, adopting a multidisciplinary, gender equality, and non-discrimination approach.

The teaching schedule includes a 58-hour annual course (30-40 students/year) structured in 4 theoretical units (40h) and 3 learn-by-doing units (18h).

The research and dissemination activities comprise intensive workshops, webinars, roundtables, and annual conferences within the framework of an institutional legal observatory open to the general public and to youth participation.

The Module activities will be designed for Italian and Erasmus students, PhDs, academic staff, lawyers, judicial operators, scholars, professionals, policymakers, NGOs, and civil society to achieve both the core priority of the Erasmus+ Programme regarding "Participation in democratic life" (strengthening citizens' understanding of the EU), and the objectives of the JM Actions to foster dialogue between the academic world and society, disseminate awareness of the EU's global actorness, and reach a wide audience.

The expected outputs include a website, informative and didactic material in an open access format, a final book, legal observatory activities and scientific articles.
